

When

When the world opens so much that your touch is all that is needed...

When God whispers your name with a message for you for others...

When the love in your heart takes its rightful place in this world...

When tears are communicating an undeniable union...

When the wind noticeably connects us...

When we share gratitude...

When angels are both seen and felt...

When mountains appear small and rivers appear shallow...

When "what matters most" expresses itself...

When music can be heard in your heart, coming from the hearts of others...

When looking at your hands has you dropping to your knees...

In that instant...that is when God touches you deeply and says,

"THANK YOU MY CHILD!!!"